BREASTFEEDING

Breastfeeding is widely known to have numerous benefits for babies. Doctors recommend breast milk as the ideal source of nutrition for the baby's first year, supplemented with solid food after 6 months.

However, modern mothers often have to balance breastfeeding with other responsibilities and may wish to involve other family members in feeding the baby. To address these challenges, Optimal has developed a range of breast pumps that make breastfeeding simpler, more comfortable, and ideal for busy mothers.

• The Optimal breast reliever is a one-handed solution for breastfeeding mothers who are experiencing engorgement or swelling in their breasts.
